Bear & Pig -When pigs fly

While playing hide and seek, Pig gets stuck in a tree trunk. The animals try in vain to free the stuck pig. Even Bear with his bear strength can't help. Then Pig has an idea: the pea soup from the night before must be used. Everyone is confused why Pig wants to eat now of all times. Won't he get stuck even tighter then? But the plan is a thunderous success and the others can only look after the freed pig in a high arc ...

About playing hide and seek and creative solutions to tricky problems.

Ulla Mersmeyer qualified at the Bremen Theatre and studied illustration in Münster. Since then, she has illustrated numerous children's and picture books. She lives and works in her dream city Hamburg.

Rufus is mad

Rufus has a problem: Halloween is coming and the little pumpkin looks just - oh horror – CUTE! He is doing everything he can to become terribly creepy. At least as scary as the headless horseman! But all his attempts don't work. No wonder he's starting to get really angry. But when he already wants to give up, the headless horseman himself runs into him and the two decide that they can scare the world as a creepy duo. After all, two is better than one.

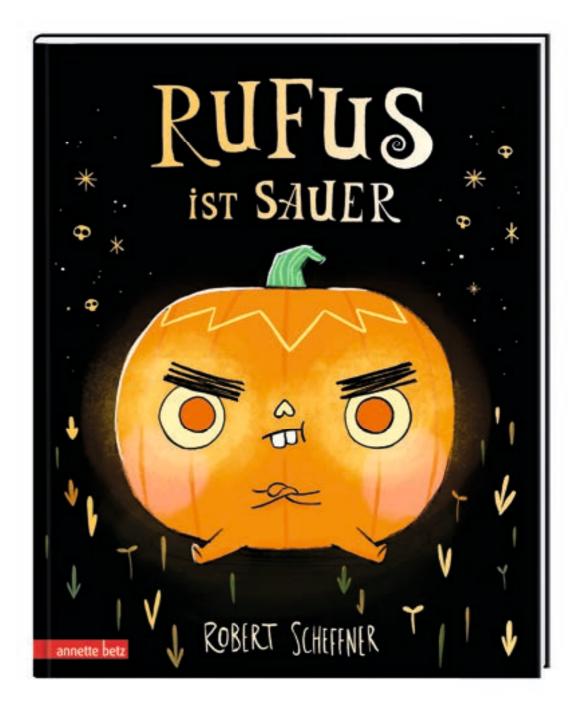

A sweet and sour pumpkin that everyone immediately takes to heart!

Robert Scheffner was born in 1985. He studied creepy communication with a focus on illustration and animation. At the beginning of the century, he became self-employed. To this day, he draws, crafts, writes and carves pumpkins, lies in coffins and haunts his house near Frankfurt am Main.

Two sniffling in the snow

Snow hare Holm is sick, with all the trimmings: a sniffy nose, a hot head and a bad mood. Fortunately, his friend Shorsh, the snowman, takes care of him with tea, handkerchiefs and good humor. He calls it "bedding". Because nothing helps better than extensive bedding! Shorsh can't stop the fact that one attempt at health care is wilder than the next – until it suddenly gets dark. Only the snow glistens a little through the window. The two of them take a break, and maybe Holm will finally sleep himself back to health ...

At the family party, Knight Rusty wants to unveil a portrait of himself in the ancestral gallery. But chaos is pre-programmed: First he declares that Bö and Koks do not officially belong to the Rusty family, and then he also clashes with the artist! When he takes up the brush himself, there is no longer any question of art. What should he present to the relatives now? Fortunately Bö and Koks are not resentful and help him. After all, they are a family, even if they are thrown together! And families stick together ...

A weird and wonderful story about chaos families and family happiness!

Jörg Hilbert studied communication design and lives as a freelance author and illustrator in the Ruhr area. His popular Knight Rusty children's book Musicals (Music: Felix Janosa) have sold well over 1 million copies so far. Even in their stage version, they are among the most popular children's plays ever.

Christmas

The Christmas Oratorio – choral work by Johann Sebastian Bach

Lena has a cold and can't be at her mom's Christmas concert. Lena's mom is singing in the choir. At home, Dad nevertheless plays a recording of the festive music in the apartment and answers all her questions about the text in the music: about the shepherds, the star and the message of Christmas. At the end, they both stand on the balcony, wrapped up thickly – and a particularly bright star shines above them.

A festive and cozy story to the famous choral work!

When 17-year-old Billie arrives in Amber Lake, she is less than thrilled. Once again she had to follow her astrophysicist father, who moves from project to project. But on her very first day of school, something strange happens: she hits someone with her car ... or something? Because apart from a bright flash of light and a dent, she can't see anything. At school, she meets a sworn clique whose members couldn't be more different. And one of them – the far too handsome Ashton Hunter – has a fresh wound on his knee ...
